

Waiting for Something

Nada Surf

Oh my who is that child
Where is he going too
Why is he so wild
What is he staring at
Why is he so taking
Seems like he is choosing to be
Even when he is faking
It always feels like I am waiting for something
It always feels like I am waiting for something
It always feels like I am waiting for something
Losing energy hard to hold
I am looking for . when I am old
Who ever put that . driving my . it's got to be who you know
It always feels like I am waiting for something
It always feels like I am waiting for something
It always feels like I am waiting for something
Have I known . thousand days is there no other way to go
It always feels like I am waiting for something
It always feels like I am waiting for something
It always feels like I am waiting for something
This peace I can feel it now
Once in a while now it better grow
It always feels like I am waiting for something
It always feels like I am waiting for something
It always feels like I am waiting for something
It always feels like I am waiting
It always feels like I am waiting for something

Lyrics provided by <http://greatlyrics.net/>