

Crossing the Frame

Coheed and Cambria

Home... a silence between glares
That stutters words misleading
Here... give me all you got
With one shot sent to lend me
No... here across the grass,
Between the glass
I know... you're not the one
I left to wait here, helpingI... I left in a sudden rush
And never said why
You... couldn't know
That I had no goodbyes
But I wish that you were
I'm spying on you, Newo
The way that you would've been if
I stayed here at home
I'm giving you up, Newo
How important I could've been to youPress the steps I take to cross your door frame if You decide to answer when my fist rings helloI... I left in a sudden rush
And never said why
You... couldn't know
That I had no goodbyesBut I wish that you were
I'm spying on you, Newo
The way that you would've been if
I stayed here at home
I'm giving you up, Newo
How important I could've been to you
Casting quarters into wells that hold our dreams
You won't believe me... if I told you so
Casting quarters into wells that hold our dreams
You won't believe me... I wouldn't if you told me soBut I wish that you were
I'm spying on you, Newo
The way that you would've been if
I stayed here at home
I'm giving you up, Newo
How important I could've been to you
