

Play Me That Song

Brantley Gilbert

She's stopping by real late tonight, just to talk.
She said "I got some things that been weighing on my mind
And I know I can come there".
And we just sit and we talk a while
And she spilled her heart in these arms of mine.
And then she'll say Play me that song, play me that song you wrote
About the girl who might not ever know
How much you care, or how much you love her.
Play me that song, play me that song again
Boy I like to think there's someone there
Who might love me just like that
So play me that song again.
Wasted time on small town guys, nothing but drama.
There's a trail of tears that leads right to my side
Cause I know how to hold her
She knows I don't give a damn about the rumors spread or what's been said
I just hold on tight until the time it right Then I play her that song, play her that song I wrote
About the girl who might not ever know
How much I care, or how much I love her.
Play her that song, play her that song again
Cause she like to think there's someone there
Who might love her just like that
So I play her that song again. Oh baby I'll never get tired, I'll play it all night
Serenade the sunrise till I'm black and blue
You make it easy to do
Baby that song, baby that song I wrote
About the girl who might not ever know
How much I care, or how much I love her.
Baby that song, I gotta tell you the truth
I've been hiding this too long from you.
Can't believe you never knew
It's all about you.
Oh it's all about you

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://greatlyrics.net/>