

Just When I Thought I'd Stopped Loving You

Reba McEntire

Three o' clock in the morning
When the telephone started ringing
I had a feeling it would be you
I didn't wanna take it but I let my imagination
Think of some kinda trouble you got into And I just had to answer
And you had to stop crying
And I, I tried to fight it But I thought if I didn't listen to you
That I wouldn't be much of a friend
I let you come over and cry on my shoulder
The hundredth time over again
And all those old emotions came raining out of the blue
Just when I thought I'd stopped loving you You've got a way of knowing when I'm on the edge of giving in
And how to use those beautiful eyes
So if one day your asking me if I ever thought that Maybe we oughta give it one more try And I just had to answer
And you, you had to start smiling
And I thought about lying But I thought if I wasn't honest with you
That I wouldn't be much of a friend
I let you come over and cry on my shoulder
The hundredth time over again And all those old emotions came raining out of the blue
Just when I thought I'd stopped loving you Oh, I hate you for making me crazy
So why is it I, I keep on taking you back, baby?
But I thought if I didn't listen to you
Then I wouldn't be much of a friend
I let you come over and cry on my shoulder
The hundredth time over again And all those old emotions came raining out of the blue
Just when I thought I'd stopped loving you
Just when I thought I'd stopped loving you You take two steps down the highway
But you come running back
What am I supposed to do?
What am I supposed to do?
What am I supposed to do with that? Wrapping my arms around you
Yeah, yeah

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://greatlyrics.net/>