

Damn Country Music

Tim McGraw

I packed it all on a whim threw an old Hank cassette tape in dad's '84 rusty ford he swore we'd never make it I quit my job, let my momma down broke an angel's heart on the way out of town pulled my roots from the ground for the hum of wheels on the blacktop the strum of strings on a flat top it's a neon fever for a small town dreamer tells you everything you have that's worth losin'
damn country music
you might get lost in the lights the things that keep you up all night whiskey straight 3 a.m. chasin' songs in your head it's the sweetest highs, the lowest lows needin' yes and hearin' no just another so-so believe me i know it's the hum of wheels on the blacktop
the strum of strings on a flat top it'll take you, break you damn sure make you do things you never thought you'd be doing
damn country music
when the money, the fame the lights on your name all fade away well you'll still be a slave to
the hum of wheels on the blacktop
the strum of strings on a flat top
it's a neon fever for a small town dreamer tells you everything you have that's worth losing
damn country music
damn country music

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://greatlyrics.net/>

