

All Tractors Ain't Green

Jimmie Allen

I learned back when I was young
Be who you are and know where you're from
And we ain't got to be just alike
Not everything is black or white
All guitars don't sound the same
Can't judge whiskey by the bottle
It might go against the grain of that country boy motto
Sometimes what you get ain't always what you see
All fields ain't corn, and all tractors ain't green
Kind of like the cover in a book
I might sound a little different than I look
And I ain't afraid of standin' out
And after all these years yeah I know now
I know now that
All guitars don't sound the same
Can't judge whiskey by the bottle
It might go against the grain of that country boy motto
Sometimes what you get ain't always what you see
All fields ain't corn, and all tractors ain't green
No no
All tractors ain't green
All tractors ain't green
All guitars don't sound the same
Can't judge whiskey by the bottle
We ain't gotta be just alike
And not everything is black and white
Oh yeah 'Cause all guitars don't sound the same
Can't judge whiskey by the bottle
It might go against the grain of that country boy motto
Sometimes what you get ain't always what you see
All fields ain't corn, and all tractors ain't green
All guitars don't sound the same
Can't judge whiskey by the bottle
It might go against the grain of that country boy motto
Sometimes what you get ain't always what you see
All fields ain't corn, and all tractors ain't green
No all tractors ain't, all tractors ain't green
