All That Remains

one moment never told that i have seen nobility my life's been molded by that which was demonstrated for me i'll not deny the truth of right and wrong set forth for me if i am half of this my simple pride will be released never believed, deceived by the foolish the weak embody lies here in lies the heart of this truth i know now what it's worth a second chance at this or reason to justify this gift a simple talk or two would let me feel more at ease six feet an earthen home in silence the circle incomplete
